GOVERNOR DIRECTS FIRST AID MEASURES

Legislature Asked to Pass $500,000 Relief Appropriation
Whole Towns Almost Wiped Out—Visit of Tragedy Was Sudden.

Chicago, Ill., March 19.—Revised tabulation this afternoon estimated the tornado casualties at approximately 952 dead and 5,770 injured. The dead according to states: Illinois, 572; Indiana, 235; Missouri, 26; Kentucky, nine; Tennessee, 80. The injured: Illinois, 4,801; Indiana, 524; Missouri, 110; Kentucky, 90; Tennessee, 245.

Chicago, March 19.—The tornado which tore its way of death and destruction through southern Illinois and into Indiana, left a toll of 1,265 lifeless victims lying in its wake today, according to latest reports from the stricken cities and villages. To this appalling death total may be added scores, possibly hundreds more before the day is done. The estimates of the injured, including those gravely, probably fatally hurt, and others suffering fractures, ran as high as eight thousand in some instances.

The full toll of the black monster that whirled so suddenly and so dreadfully out of an afternoon sky may not be fully known for another 24 hours. Fires are burning in scores of stricken communities, completing the work of destruction wrought by the cyclone that was nature's greatest blow to the state of Illinois.

Troops are already in charge of several spots in the stricken area that extends through southern Illinois from the western to the eastern borders.

Relief trains have arrived at the devastated regions, while more are being started from cities throughout the state.

Governor Small, who, with Adjutant General Carlos Black, of the Illinois National Guard, remained at the state capital in Springfield, throughout the night, directing first aid measures,

XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY FEELS ONLY TAIL END OF FATAL TORNADO

High Wind Velocity Greets Late Pedestrians—Heavy Rainfall Accompanies Storm But No Damage Reported—Telephone Company Escapes Trouble

Aside from a noticeable increase in the velocity of the wind, Xenia was not affected by the disastrous tornado that swept through Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, and crossed the Ohio river to Kentucky, Tennessee and down into Alabama leaving ruin in its wake, late Wednesday.

Pedestrians tramping homeward late Wednesday night, were met in turning corners by high gusts of wind in a westerly direction, and motorists were forced to give their cars additional "juice" in climbing steep hills.

Whether she will be tried for murder or an attempt made to commit her to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima, was to be decided today by Prosecutor Joseph Seymour, after consultation with physicians who will be called to examine the woman.

AD HEADLINES

A good advertising headline, like a mechanical toy, must "do something" to be successful.

A revolver company recently collected 19 different headlines which had been used on advertisements for its firearms. These headlines were given exhaustive tests to see which were of the most value. The one which proved to be the best all around headline was, "A Match For Any Burglar"; the worst was, "Mrs. Dock, a Novice, Fires on Burglar and Tips Him."

The first head is good because it is concise and stimulates the imagination. The other head says something rather commonplace in a rather clumsy fashion. The first headline is easily rememberable; the second practically impossible to remember.

A headline should stimulate the

MRS. EDW. POLLETT

Portsmouth, Ohio.—At the time I started to take Dr. Pierce's Medicines, about 20 years ago, I was down and out physically, my nerves were completely gone. I would get spells of hysteria and could neither sleep nor eat. I was so weak I could not do any work and was able to sit up only about an hour at a time. I doctorred for six months but instead of getting better I grew worse. A neighbor came in to see me one day and persuaded me to take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took the "Favorite Prescription" and the "Golden Medical Discovery" (together) also the "Pleasant Pellets", and in three months I was back to normal health. My nerves were good, I could eat and sleep well and do all my own work"—Mrs. Edward Pollitt, 8444 Front St. All dealers.

Mills Taylor, executive secretary of the New World Movement, thanking the local members for the dinner and social enjoyment provided workers during the campaign for funds.

Members voted to give a handsome sum for furnishing the new parsonage which is now almost completed and ready for occupancy.

EARLY REPORTS ON CAMPAIGN FOR PARK INDICATE SUCCESS

First available reports at Xenia Recreation Headquarters from voluntary workers who inaugurated a canvass of the city Thursday morning to raise $10,000 with which to finance the proposed city park in the Dodds Addition, indicated that at least sufficient funds will be raised Thursday to start operations this summer.

Reports were coming in slowly but were "very" encouraging according to officials of the association. Although there are many workers yet to be heard from, officials expressed the belief a partial report of the pledges acquired could be obtained late Thursday.

Canvass of the business district was begun by members of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at a meeting and luncheon at the Goody Shoppe Thursday noon at which T. H. Zell, president of the association urged solicitors to greater efforts.

Members of each club were allotted a territory to cover in the afternoon, and presented with a list of names to be asked to aid the park plan.

Complete reports from the workers will probably not be forthcoming until Friday, although workers have received orders to report at campaign headquarters at City Hall immediately after their canvass has been completed.

The campaign got under way under the most optimistic conditions, officials said. Workers were given final instructions and enthusiasm that the drive will be successful had not abated. On the contrary officials of the association declared that indications pointed to the necessary amount being obtained by evening.

at 1:30 o'clock at the home with interim in Bellbrook.

Besides her husband, no near relatives survive.

FOR TEN YEARS

"The World's Greatest Buy"

Everyone Says It—Sales Prove It

Hudson is not called "the World's Greatest Buy" for today alone. That is acknowledgment of ten years' constant refinement of a great car around the famous patented Super-Six principle.

The reasons for that position affect all motor car buying. They cannot be ignored.

A supreme and exclusive motor principle, adding power, smoothness, performance, without added weight, cylinders or cost.

The largest production of 6-cylinder closed cars in the world—and the value advantages of that position.

Actual proof of greatest value—which is SALES.

And now the greatest price advantage with the finest quality Hudson ever offered.

It is only as you find the real comparisons for Hudson qualities among the costliest cars that the enormous difference in price is so astonishing.

All now know that higher price can buy no smoother performance than Hudson's. It cannot buy more brilliant results in pick-up, power or speed. It cannot buy greater reliability or endurance.

And with all this capacity and flexibility

Hudson keeps the economy, simplicity and easy maintenance of the "Six."

At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

AID LEGITIMATE BUSINESS

If nothing more could be said in praise of the present Ohio legislature there is one distinguishing feature which commends it to the public, namely, its disposition to aid rather than to hamper legitimate business; to keep the appropriation within the income of the state; to maintain a friendly and helpful attitude towards the chief executive and pass such remedial legislation as to clarify existing statutes,

The confirmation of the appointees of Governor Donahey to the important commissions is a much mooted question. The legislature thus far has not taken politics into consideration. The Senate promptly confirmed T. J. Duffy as a member of the Industrial commission to succeed himself. Politically Duffy did not suit the majority but his ability was recognized. Other appointees were confirmed to fill minor positions of trust; these concurrences showing the board mindedness of the Senate. The opinion has been that the Senate should confirm men known to be fitted for the positions they are to occupy.

It would be well for the people of this commonwealth if Donahey were to work along similar lines. In the appointment of former Lieutenant Governor Earl D. Bloom and J. W. Huffman, of Zanesville, as members of the Utilities commission, he has followed a strictly political path as both men are wholly lacking in experience and study of utility matters. There is no personal feeling against either one of these men. Bloom, although a Democrat, had many friends on the Republican side when he presided over the Senate. Huffman, a young man of splendid qualities, has just passed his student days as a lawyer. The value of the public utilities in Ohio is, in round numbers, a billion and a half dollars. The safeguard of these interests and those of the public—which are, after all, identical—lies in the appointment of men who know their needs and their conditions. One cannot be favored without harm to the other. The membership of the Public Utilities commission should be made up of men whose ability cannot be questioned and in whose selection politics has no part.

If the Governor expects the legislature to continue friendly it would be well for him to make a sincere effort to retain its respect for the ability of his appointees.

NOT SERIOUS AFTER ALL

PERHAPS the women of America, especially since they have been given the vote, and with it the constitutionally recognized right to do their own thinking, are at last reaching the point where they will refuse to be dictated to by Paris, as regards fashions. We are told, here in this country, that the bobbed hair fad is on the wane despite the announcement of the president of the Academy of Master French Coiffeurs to the contrary. Its name suggests that this institution takes itself very seriously. Perhaps its verdict is final in France, but it will hardly carry much weight here.

American women will likely continue to wear their hair in whatever manner they please. Fashions and fads come and go, of course, in hair as in other things and perhaps bobbing is, or soon will be, on the decline. After all it is not a burning question though it has had as much serious consideration in many instances as if it were.

To Make Rich Red Blood

Revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves and increase your strength and endurance

Thousands who are troubled with persistent coughing at night, by robbing them of valuable sleep when the system is strained and says them open to dangerous infections, can quickly act to prevent this danger through a very simple treatment. People who have only been able to rest all night on account of coughing spells have found they can sleep the whole night through undisturbed often the first time they try it.

This treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold in your mouth 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation of the throat, loosens phlegm and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The result is you usually sleep soundly the very first night, and the entire health condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, whooping cough, and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children with spasmodic cough—not harmful drugs.

Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good drug-gists. Ask for

For a four-inch-wide edging of coarse ecru lace runs completely around this scarf.

The use of mercerized rayon silk in the home are becoming more and more numerous. The efficient housewife appreciates this pretty material which requires no ironing. For the sake of the young home-maker who has not yet become familiar with this variety of cotton goods, I will describe it.

It comes in stripes about one inch wide—alternate pink and ecru stripes, blue and ecru stripes, yellow and ecru stripes, lavender and ecru stripes and many other color-combinations. In most shops it is priced around $1.50 a yard and is 41 inches wide (although prices vary in some vicinities). It is shot through with a sort of invisible design in mercerized cotton thread, which gives it a silky sheen.

There is also a variety of all-cotton rayon on the market (that is, exactly the same as the mercerized rayon in regard to colors and width, but lacking the silky sheen). This all-cotton rayon, or searsucker, cost but 69 cents in most stores and is very nearly as effective as the higher priced variety.

The following new material appeared in the shops, we saw it used chiefly for bed spreads. But now we see it made into bureau-scarfs.

MONTANA IS GIVEN MATCH BY GATSOFF ON EAGLES PROGRAM

BY L. J. WONES

Pete Montana of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, defeated George Gatsoff of Massillon, Ohio, at Eagles Hall Wednesday night when the latter, after each man had won a fall, entered the ring and literally gave the Iowa man the match.

The entire bout lasted a little over thirty minutes and during this time there was not a dull moment. Both men were fast and furious with their wrestling tactics. Montana left the ring often and Gatsoff would chase him around the outside and then back in again.

At the start of the match much tumbling was done by both contestants. Gatsoff got several leg splits on Montana who always managed to get loose. Montana's chief grip was an arm lock which he used frequently with fair results. Gatsoff was the aggressor throughout the first fall, getting more grips, but Montana was not idle and did not spend all his time on the defense and after the men had been grappling about twenty minutes he got a leg split on the Massillon man that caused him to suffer quite a bit. Gatsoff got a toe hold that forced the Iowan to let him out of the split and Montana got loose in a jiffy and did a marathon about the ring with Gatsoff in pursuit. On entering Gatsoff got a wristlock which pinned Montana to the mat. The time was twenty-eight minutes.

Montana made a nice comeback and evened things up by taking the second fall with a flying mare in seven minutes.

The about ten minutes when time was called and the bout stopped. The crowd, boozed and hissed, all twenty-five of them. It was then announced that the men agreed to wrestle two out of three falls with a forty-five minute time limit attached and this limit being reached naturally the bout was stopped. It was advertised to be a two out of three fall match with no time limit so this explains the argument Gatsoff re-entered the ring and scuffled about a minute or two and let Montana get some queer leg hold and win with it.

In the semi-final Speedy Crawford was given the decision over Gene Wead both of this city. The match was fast and exciting while it lasted.

Crawford took the first fall after nineteen minutes of wrestling when he got an arm lock. Wead refused to come back alleging that Crawford was kneeing and butting him, which was the truth. He is willing to meet the colored boy any other time with these tactics barred. Wead showed lots of improvement since his last match at the Eagles. He is much stronger and quicker and knows more now about the mat game.

This show from some of the fans' standpoint was not entirely satisfactory and it looks as though it did the wrestling game quite a bit of harm in this man's town. Harry Spencer was the third man in the ring. His decisions in some places were anything but right according to the squawk put up by the fans.

TO GIVE CONCERT

The Trinity Orchestra, composed of twelve musicians, will give a free concert at Trinity M. E. Church, Thursday evening, March 26. The program will consist of operatic numbers, solos and sacred music. The orchestra is under the direction of G. A. Pillsbury. A silver offering will be taken at the close of the service.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Tells you there is danger ahead. A healthy bladder does not get at night. J. H. Dorton, W. Graham, Va., says: "I had to get up seven or eight times at night for forty years. I thought it was my bladder, but it was Buchu. For a short time, I am alright." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder as Epsom Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, drifting, foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. There are no caustics or irritating action on the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold at all leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Sayre and Hemphill. Adv.

JACK AND THE BEAN STALK

There was once a poor widow whose hair was falling out badly. But she wasn't bit worried about it, however, for she had a shiftless young son, Jack, who was continually doing hair-raising stunts. Now, in order to make the female horse proceed, the poor mother sold her electric curlers, her bridge tables, and all such necessities, until the only thing she had left was a yellow cow.

One day there was nothing in the house to eat but some Angel Food cake and a platter of pickled pig's feet, so with her eyes dimmed with falling hair the mother told Jack to go see what the pup would fetch.

Jack took the dog to the village barber who traded the boy a package of watermelon seeds and a bottle of hair tonic for it. He then ran back to his mother, who refused to accept the hair tonic. She immediately got her dandruff up and with one swing of her arm she threw the seeds and the bottle of hair tonic far into the garden, where the bottle broke into a thousand pieces and the contents spilled over the seeds.

The next morning when Jack rolled out of the shucks he looked into the garden and a marvelous sight met his eyes. The seeds had taken root over night and the tonic had so nourished them that a great vine had grown so high that it seemed to touch the sky.

Jack, looking like an angel in his nightshirt, began right away to climb the stalk. Finally on the 76th day he reached the top and climbed through a hole in the sky onto what seemed to be a roof garden, where he found hundreds of watermelons, each filled with the precious hair tonic juice.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS AND INDIANA STRUCK WORST BY TWISTER

The cities where greatest loss of life and property occurred were at West Frankfort with 400 estimated dead, Murphysboro, 200 dead, De Soto 140 dead and Carmi and its environs 100 dead.

Fire added to the horror in West Frankfort and De Soto. The wreckage burned over several blocks in both cities, incinerating bodies of the victims.

The great storm swept out of the west, developing in eastern Kansas, sweeping over Missouri, causing some loss of life in that state and gaining in intensity, crossed the Mississippi between St. Louis, Mo., and Cairo, Illinois.

Murphysboro was the first to feel its strength.

The great black cloud swept down on the city, turning afternoon brightness into inky midnight darkness. Then came, after a moment of death-like stillness, a shriek of the wind, crashing of buildings and death.

The surge of the storm was gone in a few minutes, then came a deluge of rain. That is the description survivors give.

A few minutes later the huge black cloud had swept down on Frankfort, a hundred miles or so to the east. The same destruction was repeated there. The little village of Parrish, just northeast of Frankfort, was next to go. Only three or four of the villagers had been accounted for last night. Every habitation had been laid in ruins; it was reported by a survivor reaching Benton. The city of Benton suffered only slight damage although but few miles north of Frankfort.

The path of the storm—the heart of it—was not more than a mile wide. It might have passed through the state without striking any city. But it chanced that some of the most populous cities in the southern part of the state were directly in its path. Rain continued to fall throughout the night and snow was threatening. The temperature had been above sixty degrees before the storm. Afterward it fell to near freezing, bringing intense suffering to thousands of homes.

Churches, lodge halls, schoolhouses and private homes were converted into emergency hospitals. Doctors from St. Louis, Chicago and the larger cities of the country were on the scene today to administer relief. Roads were reported blocked by washouts and banks of debris. This condition hampered relief work.

By tonight relief workers will have made a complete survey of the stricken area and will be able to give accurate estimates of the loss of life and property.

Benton and DuQuoin were quickly organized as relief stations, as was Gorham. In all these towns every available inch of space was being used for the injured who will number into the thousands. Many are reported dying hourly. On every hand were stretched mangled and bleeding victims. The wrecked towns of Murphysboro and West Frankfort were undergoing indescribable scenes of death, devastation and pain. Long caravans of automobiles carried the dead to nearby towns whose medical facilities are pitifully inadequate to cope with the situation.

Dead were left lying in the streets, a few assembled in neat rows, but many left tangled in the wrecks in which they perished.

The cyclone struck its first blow at Annapolis, Mo., leaped madly across into Illinois for several hundred miles, tearing on its way to Indiana, before it spent its force. Herrin and Marion were both in its path but no definite word has been obtained of the casualties or damage at either of these points.

At De Soto fire added to the horror. The schoolhouse there went down, sending its timbers and brick over 125 children. Eleven are known dead, ninety were hurt, many fatally and twenty are still missing in the wreckage.

Property damage will reach more than $5,000,000 at Murphysboro and West Frankfort, the two largest cities struck.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad shops were completely demolished at West Frankfort, as was workings of the famous Orient mine, where hundreds were killed and injured. The greatest chaos reigned and efforts to systemize the rescue work failed miserably. Fire broke out in a number of smaller towns and for miles and miles the sky was lurid with its glow of devastation.

An injured man reached the village at Ava with first news of the destruction at Murphysboro. He was unable to give exact figures of the dead and injured. He drove part of the way from Murphysboro to Ava in an automobile, but was forced to abandon it because of washed out roads.

"I don't know how many are dead," he reported. "I just got out of there to try to get help. There were bodies lying on the streets everywhere and the injured were dying like dogs. There was no one to aid them."

BRNG UP FATHER

One Wife on Approval

by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "Luxury of Love," "The Husband Planner," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND'S husband, Jim, has gone to Honolulu shortly after their marriage, following a misunderstanding with his wife, and has taken his mother with him, leaving Cynthia to face the disappearance of her sister-in-law.

LOUELLA, and all her world, Cynthia turns to.

CECILE MALCOLM, leader of the town's gayest set, and accepts the friendship of.

NOEL GARDNER, the town's black sheep, going with them to a mid-week house party at Cecile's mountain cabin.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XLI—LOUELLA STEPS IN

CYNTHIA answered the telephone herself the next morning, expecting that Cecile would be at the other end of the wire. Instead, Noel's voice answered her.

"Cynthia, I must see you," he exclaimed. "It's most important."

"But I can't see you," she answered. Then, recalling that Cecile had insisted that Noel must not know of the revelations which she had made to Cynthia the day before, she added hastily: "I'm not feeling up to talking with you, Noel. Can't you write me about it?"

"Well, I suppose so if you insist.

It's about business—that stock which you bought has gone up, you see—I've sold the sub-division and you're going to make loads of money. Aren't you delighted?"

"Why—yes, of course I am." She congratulated him and listened while he talked excitedly of the deal, and how he had put it over. But when at last she was free to hang up the receiver she turned away with a sigh of indifference. After all, what did money matter when your life was worse than useless?

But her feeling about the stock was not shared by others. That afternoon Louella dropped in. Remembering how her sister-in-law had cut her a short time before on the street, Cynthia smiled as Louella was announced, wondering what had brought about this change.

Louella came straight to the point.

"I wanted to see you about that stock of mother's," she explained. "I mean that stock in Noel Gardner's company that owned that new sub-division."

"Oh, yes," replied Cynthia quietly.

"Or course, it was understood that the stock would always be mother's if she wanted it back—that is, within a certain time," Louella went on. "Well, as she isn't here I'm managing affairs for her, and I've come to see about buying it now."

Cynthia said nothing. She was wondering just how much truth Louella supposed there was in what she was saying.

"I didn't realize that you were buying it at the time, and neither did mother," she went on. "Noel Gardner said nothing about that at the time. He just told mother that he understood that she wasn't satisfied with the investment, which she had made without Jim's advice while Jim was away, and Noel said that he'd be glad to take the stock off her hands. I didn't know that he was buying it for you," she concluded.

"I asked him not to say anything about that," Cynthia replied. "As Jim was on his honeymoon with me when she made the investment I felt responsible, in a way, so it seemed only fair for me to relieve her of the stock so that she wouldn't lose money because of it."

"Well, that was kind of you, naturally. But when I wrote mother about it she was simply wild. Noel Gardner has always had such a dreadful reputation in town, you see. She said that she wouldn't have done anything that would throw you into contact with him for anything in the world."

"So she cabled me to come to you at once and buy the stock right back from you, for whatever you paid for it. That's what I've come about. She's so unhappy about the whole thing. I'd written her, of course, that people were talking about you and Noel—that they were saying unpleasant things—that is—"

"Yes, of course," Cynthia cut in. She could well imagine what Louella had written Madame Leland!

"And so we can just straighten out this matter of the stock right now," Louella went on, sauntering over to the window. "Why don't you come to luncheon now with me downtown, and on the way we can call for Stanley, and while we're at his office we can do the whole thing legally; I suppose there'll be papers

TORNADO DEATH TOLL PLACED AT 952 BETWEEN 5,000 AND 6,000 HURT; FIRES FOLLOW WIND

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS AND INDIANA ARE STRUCK WORST BY TWISTER

Full Toll Still Problematical—Aid Rushed to Stricken Towns—Troops Take Charge—Relief Trains Arrive

GOVERNOR DIRECTS FIRST AID MEASURES

Legislature Asked to Pass $500,000 Relief Appropriation
Whole Towns Almost Wiped Out—Visit of Tragedy Was Sudden.

Chicago, Ill., March 19.—Revised tabulation this afternoon estimated the tornado casualties at approximately 952 dead and 5,770 injured. The dead according to states: Illinois, 572; Indiana, 235; Missouri, 26; Kentucky, nine; Tennessee, 80. The injured: Illinois, 4,801; Indiana, 524; Missouri, 110; Kentucky, 90; Tennessee, 245.

Chicago, March 19.—The tornado which tore its way of death and destruction through southern Illinois and into Indiana, left a toll of 1265 lifeless victims lying in its wake today, according to latest reports from the stricken cities and villages. To this appalling death total may be added scores, possibly hundreds more before the day is done. The estimates of the injured, including those gravely, probably fatally hurt, and others suffering fractures, ran as high as eight thousand in some instances.

The full toll of the black monster that whirled so suddenly and so dreadfully out of an afternoon sky may not be fully known for another 24 hours. Fires are burning in scores of stricken communities, completing the work of destruction wrought by the cyclone that was nature's greatest blow to the state of Illinois.

Troops are already in charge of several spots in the stricken area that extends through southern Illinois from the western to the eastern borders.

Relief trains have arrived at the devastated regions, while more are being started from cities throughout the state.

Governor Small, who, with Adjutant General Carlos Black, of the Illinois National Guard, remained at the state capital in Springfield, throughout the night, directing first aid measures,

Ohio Youths Held In Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., March 19.—After a spectacular escape from what was termed a dangerous mob at Miami, and a twelve hour flight across the state, William Fox, 18, of Columbus, Ohio, and John Naugle, 23, of Toledo, O., who are alleged to have confessed to the slaying of Police Sergeant L. L. Webster, in Miami, last Sunday, early today arrived here in custody of deputy sheriffs and were placed in safety behind the strong walls of the Duval County jail.

The prisoners were removed from the Dade County jail before the eyes of a quiet but "dangerous" looking mob by deputy sheriffs.

JUST KILLED

Glenster, Mar. 19.—Mayor S. A. Parks has announced that he does not intend to be annoyed by complaints of wandering chickens and dogs this year in case of garden or yard trespass. So he issued a blanket order that any such dogs or chickens many be killed without further notice.

STORM TOLL

Chicago, March 19.—By towns th death toll from yesterday's midwestern tornado today stood: West Frankfort, Ill., 400. New Orient, Ill., 25. Murphyboro, Ill., 250. De Soto, Ill., 250. Parrish, Ill., 30. Griffin, Ind., 25. Carbondale, Ill., 25. Vergennes, Ill., 38. Princeton, Ind., 100. Annapolis, Mo., 3. Gorham, Ill., 35. Logan, Ill., 10. Caldwell, Ill., 9. Royalton, Ill., 3. Scattering in farming regions, 50.

The number of injured, many of whom it is feared will die, is placed at between 5,000 and 6,000.

Heavy in its tragic suddenness. Almost before residents appreciated a marked disturbance in the raw, chill day, a many-vortexed tornado in the shape of a black cloud rushed upon them in a twinkling. Villages were wiped out and the dead and dying left behind.

In some of the smaller communities, it was reported that only a meager, pitiful few of the total population were left alive.

Public buildings, factories, homes of huts, all vanished like cardboard structures before the terrific wind, and in many towns, the more sturdy edifices that defied the sky monster fell in the flames that followed the mad wind in its flight.

Mines in the coal country of Illinois were wrecked. The frantic search of the wreckage for crushed but possibly alive victims that was carried on through the night was continued with dogged hope today.

High Wind Velocity Greets Late Pedestrians—Heavy Rainfall Accompanies Storm But No Damage Reported—Telephone Company Escapes Trouble

Aside from a noticeable increase in the velocity of the wind, Xenia was not affected by the disastrous tornado that swept through Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, and crossed the Ohio river to Kentucky, Tennessee and down into Alabama leaving ruin in its wake late Wednesday.

Pedestrians trapping homeward late Wednesday night, were met in turning corners by high gusts of wind from a westerly direction, and motorists were forced to give their cars additional "juice" in climbing steep hills.

THELMA MORGAN CONVERSE

DAUGHTER OF VICTIM SAYS DEVIL MADE HER GIVE FAMILY POISON

Gives Statement Which Tells of Placing Arsenic In Water

Medina, O., March 19.—Admitting the lack of a motive, reiterating again and again "the devil made me do it," Mrs. Martha Wise is in the custody of Sheriff Roshon today, the self confessed poisoner of her mother Mrs. Sophie Hazel, her uncle, Fred Gienke, Sr., and her aunt, Mrs. Lily Gienke, as well as the illness of some 13 or more relatives and acquaintances in the Hardscrabble district at Valley City, near here.

Whether she will be tried for murder or an attempt made to commit her to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima, was to be decided today by Prosecutor Joseph Seymour, after consultation with physicians who will be called to examine the woman.

The finger of suspicion, it was learned, had been pointed at Mrs. Wise frequently since news that the triple deaths in the Gienke family was a subject for investigation.

It was not however, until late yesterday that Mrs. Wise was brought before Seymour, Sheriff Roshon, his wife and Coroner Crum on a forthwith subpoena. She was brought here from a Cleveland Hospital, where she had gone for a minor operation.

For time, Seymour said, the woman maintained her innocence.

"I don't know anything about it," she declared with emphasis.

Last night her composure broke.

"Tell us how you did it," Mrs. Roshon, wife of the sheriff, urged.

"Well, maybe I did," Mrs. Wise admitted. "Yes I did it. I put arsenic in the water buckets."

The statement came as a complete surprise. Seymour had believed that the poisoner had placed the arsenic purchased at a Medina drug store in the coffee which the family drank at the holiday dinner on New Year's day, but the simplicity of the poison scheme and its thoroughness caused Mrs. Wise's hearers to gasp.

Mrs. Wise is a widow and 41. She has four children, ranging in age from seven to fourteen.

According to her signed statement, she poisoned the water at her mother's home on Thanksgiving day, and at the Gienke home on New Year's day. Mrs. Hazel died a few days later and Mrs. Gienke died on January 3. Her husband's death occurred February 8.

Salient points in her signed confession are:

"On the day before New Year's, I went down to Glenke's, after milk. I put some arsenic in the water pail. About two weeks after that I put some more arsenic in the water pail. The water pail was always sitting on the cupboard in Gienke's kitchen.

"I don't know why I did it. I just couldn't help it. The devil was in me."

Both he and Hoeger, whose duties until February 9, 1925, had been to receive typhoid germ cultures at the city laboratory, were to be brought to the state attorney's office with Miss Alvira Armstrong, a clerk in the health department, with whom Fahey had been friendly.

This examination was to be the focal point of the state's investigation.

The day before my mother, Mrs. Hazel, took sick, I was at her home. She and my brother, Fred Hazel, lived in the same house in separate parts. She had her kitchen and Hazel's had theirs. I went to my mother's part of the house and put a small quantity of arsenic in the water bucket. Just a pinch of it. The water bucket was sitting on the cupboard in her kitchen.

"Along the latter part of January or the first of February, I can't remember which, I put some more arsenic in the water bucket at Glenke's. That was the last time. I did not give Marie (a daughter of the Gienkes, now suffering from arsenic poisoning at Memorial Hospital in Elyria,) any arsenic in the hospital. I bought the arsenic at the drug store on the corner in Medina. A short heavyset fellow sold it to me. I told him I wanted to kill myself. I bought about two ounces. When I got the arsenic home, I wanted about it all because then better now make me feel better because want to, and my own free will."

QUIZ OFFICIALS OF CHICAGO IN EFFORT TO TRACE BACTERIA

Believe Germs Fed Billy Mc-Clintock Were Obtained From City Laboratories

Chicago, March 19.—The ominous shadow of the McClintock death probe today hung over the city of Chicago itself as the state's attorney's office prepared to question two former employees of the city's department of health in an effort to establish whether the typhoid germs alleged to have been administered to William Nelson McClintock could have come from the city's own laboratories.

The possibility was suggested by the official stationery of the National University of Science, the school headed by Dr. Charles C. Faiman today under indictment with William D. Shepherd for murder, in connection with McClintock's death. On the stationery, as members of the school's faculty, appear the names of Winfield S. Hoeger, now a city health inspector and Dr. Harry Rand, formerly in the city's bureau of diphtheria control.

Dr. Rand was listed as the medical director of Faiman's school. He left the service of the city in 1924, when he failed to pass an examination for the position which he held as temporary appointed.

Both he and Hoeger, whose duties until February 9, 1925, had been to receive typhoid germ cultures at the city laboratory, were to be brought to the state attorney's office with Miss Alvira Armstrong, a clerk in the health department, with whom Fahey is said to have been friendly.

This examination was to be the focal point of the state's investigation.

The other twenty two men, it was stated, are in a different part of the mine and may be reached sometime this afternoon.

Several additional rescue squads arrived here during the night and experienced men using the best equipment and safety appliances are working tirelessly to bring the trapped miners to the surface, dead or alive.

The Farm Bureau had absolutely nothing to do with the census," Mr. Prince said in response to statements made to the contrary.

The census was authorized by the Act of Congress, passed in 1910, and the local, state or American Farm Bureau Federation had nothing to do with the matter, Mr. Prince explained.

The census is about completed and every farm in the county is being visited to obtain the proper material.

PLANT GARDENS

Columbus, Mar. 19.—A new kind of garden may be established in Ohio. The Ohio Pharmaceutical Association is considering a proposal for starting medical plant gardens as adjuncts of schools of pharmacy, and physicians and pharmacists, students of botany in colleges and high schools and men and women generally who are interested in plant life. These gardens, Sec. Theo. D. Wetterstrom of the Ohio Pharmaceutical Association, said, would serve as new centers of community life.

BLAZE THAT THREATENS FAMOUS RESORT RESULTS IN LOSS OF FOUR MILLION

Postoffice Looted of $20,000 During Conflagration—
Infantry Patrol Streets—Breakers Hotel
Entirely Destroyed.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 19.—Three persons are believed to have lost their lives in a fire which ruined two hotels and caused $4,000,000 property damage in the famous resort of Palm Beach last night.

The flames were brought under control after dynamite had been obtained and made ready for blasting a path between the flaming buildings and other structures.

During the conflagration, it was learned that the postoffice in West Palm Beach had been looted of $20,000 and the West Palm Beach Company of Florida infantry was called out to patrol the streets and prevent further looting.

Thousands of dollars in valuable wearing apparel and other chattels of guests whose fortunes run into millions of dollars today lay on the ground, carried from the blazing hotel by the owners and servants. This is also under guard of the soldiers.

The Breakers, one of the oldest and best known of the resort hotels, was the first structure to take fire. The flames were discovered by Charles D. Frey of Chicago and Miss D. Prather of Washington, who spread the alarm.

The three believed to have perished are two children and their nurse. The father of the children, refusing to give his name, but who said he was captain of a yacht anchored in the lake, declared he left his two children and their nurse asleep in the Breakers.

After the Breakers had begun to burn fiercely, the Palm Beach hotel, a smaller structure in West Palm Beach, caught fire and also was burned to the ground.

Today all that was left of what once was the pride of the social elite of the United States and Europe, was a shapeless ruin. Four gaunt chimneys stand where the Breakers once stood.

Early estimates placed the dead in Indiana alone at 300 with as many more seriously injured. It was admitted that the loss of life might be found much greater when reports from all sections of the stricken area were tabulated.

The storm's toll in human life was so great, so many families were torn by the ravages of the twister, that no organized efforts have been made to determine the property loss. This will run into millions of dollars, it was believed.

One entire town, Griffin, Ind., was wiped out.

Nashville, Tenn., March 19.—Members of the Nashville Red Cross and a score of physicians left here early this morning for communities in Sumner County which were virtually swept off the map yesterday by a terrific tornado, which left in its wake 23 known dead and 50 seriously injured. The villages of Angle, Wilkinson, Oakgrove, Sulphur, Buck Lodge and Peatown, were razed by the twister and it is believed that a check up today will bring the death toll up to fifty or more.

Washington, March 19.—All of the manifold facilities of the American Red Cross were ordered into action today to extend relief to the thousands of victims of the disastrous storm in Illinois and other mid-western states.

Red Cross officials in the stricken communities were authorized by national headquarters to make any expenditures deemed necessary to feed and clothe the injured and provide medical aid.

A good advertising headline, like a mechanical toy, must "do something" to be successful.

A revolver company recently collected 19 different headlines which had been used on advertisements for its firearms. These headlines were given exhaustive tests to see which were of the most value. The one which proved to be the best all around headline was, "A Match For Any Burglar"; the worst was, "Mrs. Dock, a Novice, Fires on Burglar and Tips Him."

The first head is good because it is concise and stimulates the imagination. The other head says something rather commonplace in a rather clumsy fashion. The first headline is easily remembered; the second practically impossible to remember.

Advise Nervous Women

MRS. EDW. POLLETT

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"At the time I started to take Dr. Pierce's Medicines, about 20 years ago, I was down and out physically, my nerves were completely gone. I would get spells of hysteria and could neither sleep nor eat. I was so weak I could not do any work and was able to sit up only about an hour at a time. I doctorred for six months but instead of getting better I grew worse. A neighbor came in to see me one day and persuaded me to take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery' (together) also the 'Pleasant Pellets', and in three months I was back to normal health, my nerves were good; I could eat and sleep well and do all my own work"—Mrs. Edward Pollett, 8444 Front St. All dealers.

ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING AND SEWING HELD AT CHURCH

The rain did not prevent an all-day meeting of fifty-five members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First United Presbyterian Church, in the church parlors, Wednesday.

The purpose of the meeting was to sew for the Social Service League. At noon a bountiful covered dish dinner was enjoyed, after which the work was resumed until sixteen garments had been completed.

At two o'clock, a meeting of the Aid Society was called in session. Mrs. Edwin Galloway presiding and Mr. J. P. Lytle leading in the devotions. As this was the annual meeting of the society, considerable business was transacted. Satisfactory reports were given from the different divisions and accepted. Letters acknowledging gifts of clothing and comforts sent to six mission stations among the mountains were read, among which was one from Dr. J. S. McCampbell, former Xenian and member of the First Church, now a licensed minister in Cedar Creek, Greene County, Tenn.

Another letter read acknowledged the receipt of a barrel of fruit from the Women's Association at the Orphan's Home, Pittsburgh, Pa., and another was from Dr. J. Mills Taylor, executive secretary of the New World Movement, thanking the local members for the dinner and social enjoyment provided workers during the campaign for funds.

Members voted to give a handsome sum for furnishing the new parsonage which is now almost completed and ready for occupancy.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. Adda Bailey, president; Mrs. M. A. Hagler, vice president; Mrs. Carl Ervin, secretary and Mrs. Louella Jackson, treasurer.

Miss Mildred Gretzinger, Dayton, first president of the local chapter, was a guest at the affair, together with Mrs. James D. Adair and Mrs. W. Crawford Craig, patrons of the chapter. Green and white appointments predominated in the three-course dinner, and three green candles were placed on the table.

EARLY REPORTS ON CAMPAIGN FOR PARK INDICATE SUCCESS

First available reports at Xenia Recreation Headquarters from voluntary workers who inaugurated a canvass of the city Thursday morning to raise $10,000 with which to finance the proposed city park in the Dodds Addition, indicated that at least sufficient funds will be raised Thursday to start operations this summer.

Reports were coming in slowly but were "very" encouraging according to officials of the association. Although there are many workers yet to be heard from, officials expressed the belief a partial report of the pledges acquired could be obtained late Thursday.

Cannass of the business district was begun by members of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs after a meeting and luncheon at the Goody Shoppe Thursday noon at which T. H. Zell, president of the association urged solicitors to greater efforts.

Members of each club were allotted a territory to cover in the afternoon, and presented with a list of names to be asked to add the park plan.

Complete reports from the workers will probably not be forthcoming until Friday, although workers have received orders to report at campaign headquarters at City Hall immediately after their canvass has been completed.

The campaign got under way under the most optimistic conditions, officials said. Workers were given final instructions and enthusiasm that the identity of their son.

drive will be successful had not abated. On the contrary officials of the association declared that indications pointed to the necessary amount being obtained by evening.

at 1:30 o'clock at the home with interment in Bellbrook.

Mrs. Martz was a member of the Presbyterian Church at Bellbrook.

Besides her husband, no near relatives survive.

GIVEN FINE

F. P. Wikle, of Toledo, former resident of Xenia, was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to three months in the Dayton Workhouse by Judge S. C. Wright when he pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support in Probate Court Thursday morning.

Probation Officer J. E. Watt returned from Toledo with Wikle Wednesday where he had been held in a description furnished by local authorities.

FOR TEN YEARS "The World's Greatest Buy"

Everyone Says It—Sales Prove It

Hudson is not called "the World's Greatest Buy" for today alone. That is acknowledgment of ten years' constant refinement of a great car around the famous patented Super-Six principle.

The reasons for that position affect all motor car buying. They cannot be ignored.

A supreme and exclusive motor principle, adding power, smoothness, performance, without added weight, cylinders or cost.

The largest production of 6-cylinder closed cars in the world—and the value advantages of that position.

Actual proof of greatest value—which is SALES.

And now the greatest price advantage with the finest quality Hudson ever offered.

It is only as you find the real comparisons for Hudson qualities among the costliest cars that the enormous difference in price is so astonishing.

All now know that higher price can buy no smoother performance than Hudson's. It cannot buy more brilliant results in pick-up, power or speed. It cannot buy greater reliability or endurance.

And with all this capacity and flexibility Hudson keeps the economy, simplicity and easy maintenance of the "Six."

At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

AID LEGITIMATE BUSINESS

If nothing more could be said in praise of the present Ohio legislature there is one distinguishing feature which commends it to the public, namely, its disposition to aid rather than to hamper legitimate business; to keep the appropriation within the income of the state; to maintain a friendly and helpful attitude towards the chief executive and pass such remedial legislation as to clarify existing statutes,

The confirmation of the appointees of Governor Donahey to the important commissions is a much mooted question. The legislature thus far has not taken politics into consideration. The Senate promptly confirmed T. J. Duffy as a member of the Industrial commission to succeed himself. Politically Duffy did not suit the majority but his ability was recognized. Other appointees were confirmed to fill minor positions of trust; these concurrences showing the board mindedness of the Senate. The opinion has been that the Senate should confirm men known to be fitted for the positions they are to occupy.

It would be well for the people of this commonwealth if Donahey were to work along similar lines. In the appointment of former Lieutenant Governor Earl D. Bloom and J. W. Huffman, of Zanesville, as members of the Utilities commission, he has followed a strictly political path as both men are wholly lacking in experience and study of utility matters. There is no personal feeling against either one of these men. Bloom, although a Democrat, had many friends on the Republican side when he presided over the Senate. Huffman, a young man of splendid qualities, has just passed his student days as a lawyer. The value of the public utilities in Ohio is, in round numbers, a billion and a half dollars. The safeguard of these interests and those of the public—which are, after all, identical—lies in the appointment of men who know their needs and their conditions. One cannot be favored without harm to the other. The membership of the Public Utilities commission should be made up of men whose ability cannot be questioned and in whose selection politics has no part.

If the Governor expects the legislature to continue friendly it would be well for him to make a sincere effort to retain its respect for the ability of his appointees.

NOT SERIOUS AFTER ALL

PERHAPS the women of America, especially since they have been given the vote, and with it the constitutionally recognized right to do their own thinking, are at last reaching the point where they will refuse to be dictated to by Paris, as regards fashions. We are told, here in this country, that the bobbed hair fad is on the wane despite the announcement of the president of the Academy of Master French Coiffeurs to the contrary. Its name suggests that this institution takes itself very seriously. Perhaps its verdict is final in France, but it will hardly carry much weight here.

American women will likely continue to wear their hair in whatever manner they please. Fashions and fads come and go, of course, in hair as in other things and perhaps bobbing is, or soon will be, on the decline. After all it is not a burning question though it has had as much serious consideration in many instances as if it were.

THOSE TRAINS AT 6 A.M.
The trains which leave at 6 a.m., I swear I've had my fill of them! In land of sunshine, palm and flower That is the trainman's happiest hour. From Roanoke to Jacksonville I've ridden over date and hill, And seen the sun rise over them From trains which left at 6 a.m.

I've learned those schedules up and down Which mark the trains from town to town.

I've ridden in ('tis truth I write) Day coaches, but they left at night! In Pullman smokers cushioned sleep I've found the porters fast asleep. In Fords I've whizzed block after block To catch a train at 6 o'clock!

Once came a word from one inspired, "There is an excellent train," he wired,

"On which are reservations made For you with fare and Pullman paid; We'll meet you here with car and band."

MILLIONAIRE REGAINS YOUTH

NOTED PHYSICIAN SAYS GLAND EXTRACTS WILL "MAKE OVER" MANY A MAN AND WOMAN.

The Western millionaire who recently married a famous and beautiful artist is reported to have paid a fabulous sum to receive the rejuvenating gland treatment from one of America's leading doctors. Feeding the blood with gland matter has met with amazing success, but until the discovery of Kath, only the very wealthy could afford the gland treatment.

The Kath institute reports that patients have been amazed to find a new spark of life ignited when the worn-out glands of the body are supplied with the genuine extract of animal glands, as found in Kath. Pep, strength, endurance, come back quickly in many cases. Appetite improves, flabby muscles take on new tone and the system tingles with fiery energy, say numerous users.

The Kath gland treatment is for everyday folks who cannot afford high-priced medical treatment by specialists. In a few weeks this Kath treatment often has the same fine effects as the costly treatment now being taken by the large number of rich people—full healthy cheeks, an abundance of strength, vigor, love of action.

The following druggists have been appointed local Kath representatives and are authorized to guarantee that unless the Kath gland treatment does exactly what is claimed for it—money will be refunded.

The use of mercerized rayon silk in the home are becoming more and more numerous. The efficient housewife appreciates this pretty material which requires no ironing. For the sake of the young home-maker who has not yet become familiar with this variety of cotton goods, I will describe it!

It comes in stripes about one inch wide—alternate pink and ecru stripes, blue and ecru stripes, yellow and ecru stripes, lavender and ecru stripes and many other color-combinations. In most shops it is priced around $1.50 a yard and is 41 inches wide (although prices vary in some vicinities). It is shot through with a sort of invisible design in mercerized cotton thread, which gives it a silky sheen.

There is also a variety of all-cotton rayon on the market (that is, exactly the same as the mercerized rayon in regard to colors and width, but lacking the silky sheen). This all-cotton rayon, or searsucker, cost but 69 cents in most stores and is very nearly as effective as the higher priced variety.

At first when this new material appeared in the shops, we saw it used chiefly for bed spreads. But now we see it made into bureau-scarfs, laundry bags, bedroom-window overdrapes, slip-covers for boudoir pillows and in many other ways. I have been particularly attracted by the bureau scarfs and am going to describe them as I believe that many housewives will wish to make them.

To Make a Mercerized Silk Rayon Bureau-Scarf: Of course the width of the scarf will depend upon your bureau. Measure the top and plan to have the scarf come only to the front edge, but hang down several inches on each side. Assuming, for instance, that your bureau measures 37 inches by 17 inches, your scarf should be one yard and a third long and 17 inches wide. But only the center of it will be made of rayon. For a four-inch-wide edging of coarse ecru lace runs completely around this scarf.

Today's Talks

THE MAN AT LARGE

There are times when "cozy" things are pleasant and comforting, but somehow there is something of the building air about great space.

I can work better in a big room than in a small one, though I don't want the ceiling too high. With a high ceiling I can't stretch without feeling lonely in doing so. But I must have space.

And though there are those who might not name a preference offhand, still I venture the prediction that in a matter of choice they would request space.

For it is in the nature of human beings to desire room, to be able to be extravagant, though not necessarily wasteful.

The man at large, I would say, hunts for no small corners though he heartily respects them. No big man can sneer at little things, else when he least expects, he shall see his magnificently planned mansion fall because of some small though vital lack.

He who specializes in worlds is a valuable man to have around.

I overheard a conversation today between two big workers in business. One was talking in thousands of dollars, the other though listening intently, replied: "But I find it difficult to get you. Talk in millions!"

First principles underlie all important undertakings. Given a vast acreage, one man sees a thriving city with its buzz and hustle and commerce, the other merely a small place for himself with a front porch attached on which he may sit and dream to no purpose.

The man at large is a citizen of no mean country, he dreams while he is a way. He often laughs at

He is all too often criticized. But what does he care? Does he not offer a solitary smile while his mind's eye scans the horizon?

Do small things well, accurately and honestly—but attempt those big things which stir, stimulate and arouse the imagination.

JACK AND THE BEAN STALK

There was once a poor widow whose hair was falling out badly. But she wasn't a bit worried about it, however, for she had a shiftless young son, Jack, who was continually doing hair-raising stunts. Now, in order to make the female horse proceed, the poor mother sold her electric curlers, her bridge tables, and all such necessities, until the only thing she had left was a yellow cur.

One day there was nothing in the house to eat but some Angel Food cake and a platter of pickled pig's feet, so with her eyes dimmed with falling hair the mother told Jack to go see what the pup would fetch.

Jack took the dog to the village barber who traded the boy a package of watermelon seeds and a bottle of hair tonic for it. He then ran back to his mother, who refused to accept the hair tonic. She immediately got her dandruff up and with one swing of her arm she threw the seeds and the bottle of hair tonic far into the garden, where the bottle broke into thousand pieces and the contents spilled over the seeds.

The next morning when Jack rolled out of the shucks he looked into the garden and a marvelous sight met his eyes. The seeds had taken root over night and the plants had so nourished them that a great vine had grown so high that it seemed to touch the sky.

Jack, looking like an angel in his nightshirt, began right away to climb the stalk. Finally on the 76th day he reached the top and climbed through a hole in the sky onto what seemed to be a roof garden, where he found hundreds of watermelons, each filled with the precious hair tonic juice.

The cities where greatest loss of life and property occurred were at West Frankfort with 400 estimated dead, Murphysboro 200 dead, De Soto 140 dead and Carmi and its environs 100 dead.

Fire added to the horror in West Frankfort and De Soto. The wrecks burned over several blocks of both cities, incinerating bodies of the victims.

The great storm swept out of the west, developing in eastern Kansas, sweeping over Missouri, causing some loss of life in that state and gaining in intensity, crossed the Mississippi between St. Louis, Mo., and Cairo, Illinois.

Murphysboro was the first to feel its strength.

The great black cloud swept down on the city, turning afternoon brightness into inky midnight darkness. Then came, after a moment of death-like stillness, a shriek of the wind, crashing of buildings and death.

The surge of the storm was gone in a few minutes, then came a deluge of rain. That is the description survivors give.

A few minutes later the huge black cloud had swept down on Frankfort, a hundred miles or so to the east. The same destruction was repeated there. The little village of Parish, just northeast of Frankfort, was next to go. Only three or four of the villagers had been accounted for last night. Every habitation had been laid in ruins, it was reported by a survivor reaching Benton. The city of Benton suffered only slight damage although but a few miles north of Frankfort.

The path of the storm—the heart of it—was not more than a mile wide. It might have passed through the state without striking any city. But it glanced that some of the most populous cities in the southern part of the state were directly in its path. Rain continued to fall throughout the night and snow was threatening. The temperature had been above sixty degrees before the storm. Afterward it fell to near freezing, bringing intense suffering to thousands of homelss.

Churches, lodge halls, schoolhouses and private homes were converted into emergency hospitals. Doctors from St. Louis, Chicago and the larger cities of the country were on the scene today to administer relief. Roads were reported blocked by washouts and banks of debris. This condition hampered relief work.

By tonight relief workers will have made a complete survey of the stricken area and will be able to give accurate estimates of the loss of life and property.

Benton and Duquoin were quickly organized as relief stations, as was Gorham. In all these towns every available inch of space was being used for the injured who will number into the thousands. Many are reported dying hourly. On every hand were stretched mangled and bleeding victims. The wrecked towns of Murphysboro and West Frankfort were undergoing indescribable scenes of death, devastation and pain. Long caravans of automobiles carried the dead to nearby towns whose medical facilities are pitifully inadequate to cope with the situation.

Dead were left lying in the streets, a few assembled in neat rows, but many left tangled in the wrecks in which they perished.

The cyclone struck its first blow at Annapolis, Mo., leaped madly across into Illinois for several hundred miles, tearing on its way to Indiana, before it spent its force. Herrin and Marion were both in its path but no definite word has been obtained of the casualties or damage at either of these points.

At De Soto fire added to the horror. The schoolhouse there went down, sending its timbers and brick over 125 children. Eleven are known dead, ninety were hurt, many fatally and twenty are still missing in the wreckage.

Property damage will reach more than $5,000,000 at Murphysboro and West Frankfort, the two largest cities struck.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad shops were completely demolished at West Frankfort, as was workings of the famous Orient mine, where hundreds were killed and injured. The greatest chaos reigned and efforts to systemize the rescue work failed miserably. Fire broke out in a number of smaller towns and for miles and miles the sky was lurid with its glow of devastation.

An injured man reached the village at Ava with first news of the destruction at Murphysboro. He was unable to give exact figures of the dead and injured. He drove part of the way from Murphysboro to Ava in an automobile, but was forced to abandon it because of washed out roads.

"I don't know how many are dead," he reported. "I just got out of there to try to get help. There were bodies lying on the streets everywhere and the injured were dying like dogs. There was no one to aid them."

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND'S husband, Jim, has gone to Honolulu shortly after their marriage, following a misunderstanding with his wife, and has taken his mother with him, leaving Cynthia to face the disappointment of her sister-in-law.

LOUELLA, and all her world, Cynthia turns to.

CYNTHIA answered the telephone herself the next morning, expecting that Cecile would be at the other end of the wire. Instead, Noel's voice answered her.

"Cynthia, I must see you," he exclaimed. "It's most important."

"But I can't see you," she answered. Then, recalling that Cecile had insisted that Noel must not know of the revelations which she had made to Cynthia the day before, she added hastily: "I'm not feeling up to talking with you, Noel. Can't you write me about it?"

"Well, I suppose so if you insist. It's about business—that stock which you bought has gone up, you see—I've sold the sub-division and you're going to make loads of money. Aren't you delighted?"

"Why—yes, of course I am." She congratulated him, and listened while he talked excitedly of the deal, and how he had put it over. But when at last she was free to hang up the receiver, she turned away with a sigh of indifference. After all, what did money matter when your life was worse than useless.
